EXAMINE YOUR TICKET.

Below is the vignette adopted by the Republican County Committee. Any ticket purporting to be Republican that has not this device upon it is a fraud. "Be careful how you vote."

Regular Republican Ticket.

THE REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK.

One month ago the prospect for a Republican victory in the State was not bright; it was dark. To-day it is not dark; it is bright. Our latest advices from Republican State headquarters, and from the various precincts of Los Angeles county, are most encouraging. Good tidings reach us from all along the line. The Republican watch-fires burn brightly. The Republican standards are advancing, and the Republican hosts are on the front line of battle, confident, organized, compact, resolute, aggressive. For many weeks the contest was waged without any apparent progress on the part of the Republicans. But as the issues became more clearly defined, and the real attitude of the contending parties became plain to the people, the complexion of the contest changed. The past fortnight, especially the past ten days, has witnessed a radical change in public sentiment. The tide of victory, which at first seemed to set strong towards the Democracy, and later to stand still, slowly changed and commenced to flow towards the Republican side; and now, on the morning of the day of battle, there is very strong reason for the spreading belief that this refluent tide will prove to be the tide of victory, and by set of sun will have carried Morris M. Estee and the whole Republican ticket into the haven of Victory! Let us all make one supreme effort to help forward this so glorious result!

ESTEE AND STONEMAN.

Mr. Estee's magnificent personal canvass of the State—a canvass that is destined to become memorable in the political annals of California—has been telling grandly for him and the cause he represents. The people have met him face to face on every stump from the Oregon border to the Mexican line, everywhere from the mountains to the sea. They have looked into his honest eyes and heard his candid and forceful words. They have seen how deeply in earnest he is in his clear and powerful exposition of those grave questions which so deeply concern the welfare of the Commonwealth and her children. They have listened to him while he depicted in words of power and truth the enormity of the burden placed upon the State and its people by the giant and grasping railroad monopoly. They have examined his record on the transcendent question of anti-monopoly, and have found it clear, pronounced and consistent all the way through. They have satisfied themselves that Estee is for the people and against the monopoly. They have at the same time watched the public movements of his opponent, Gen. Stoneman, and listened to the few puerile and pointless platitudes that he has managed to utter in the campaign. They have measured, compared and contrasted the two men, their character, capacity and records; and we firmly believe that they have formed in their minds a comparison most damaging to General Stoneman. We are satisfied that they have at last awakened to the grave and startling fact that General Stoneman is the candidate of the railroad corporation; the favorite of the monster monopoly which he is sworn to curb and restrain; the choice of the very men and the very interests which he has professed so long and so loudly to antagonize. The people of California will never consciously elevate to the office of Governor a man whom they believe to be the facile instrument of the grinding monopoly from whose merciless exactions they have suffered so long and so much. General Stoneman is to-day the chosen candidate of that monopoly. Its principals, agents, employes, attorneys, adherents and organs are upholding, defending and forwarding with all their great power Stoneman's candidacy—secretly, tortuously, and with insidious indirection, to be sure, but certainly and unanimously, all the same. Think of this now indisputable fact, and think what it signifies! We do not see how it is possible for General Stoneman to escape the charge of being the railroad company's candidate, nor to escape the fate which ought to overtake him, as such, at the hands of the electors.

Let Morris M. Estee, the only true anti-monopoly gubernatorial candidate before the people to-day, receive their votes!

RAILROAD MONEY.

The charge has been made that W. W. Stow, political attorney of the Central Pacific Railroad and confidential agent of Leland Stanford, paid the rent of Music Hall, San José, in which the Democratic State Convention was held, during the time that body was in session. The charge is proved. The San José Mercury prints in a supplement a fac simile of the bill made against Mr. Stow by C. H. Maddox, manager of the hall, for its use on the 23d and 24d days of June. The bill is receipted. The proof is clear. That convention not only nominated Gen. Stoneman for Governor in that hall, but the Third District Railroad Commissioner Convention nominated, at the same time and place, W. W. Foote for Railroad Commissioner. Foote and Stow stopped at the same hotel in San José—the St. James—and were seen in frequent consultation together. These facts constitute cumulative proof that the Democratic State Convention was manipulated by the railroad men, and that Stoneman and Foote are the railroad candidates. Voters, do not forget it!

GEN. STONEMAN AND THE EAGLE CORPS.

It is known certainly that Gen. Stoneman was much incensed at the Eagle Corps when he ascertained the fact that the majority of that military company is composed of Republicans. It is further known, and reported to us as a fact, of the correctness of which we have become satisfied, that Gen. Stoneman has within the last few days caused word to be sent to an officer of the company, by one of his political agents in Los Angeles, that unless the members cease their political opposition to him, he will, when he becomes Governor, cause the company to be disbanded! This is a most extraordinary action and utterance upon Gen. Stoneman's part. When we first heard this rumor, which has now developed into a fact, we could not believe it; we scouted the idea that Gen. Stoneman had no better sense—no more discretion—no more tolerance. It seems we were mistaken. In making this despicable threat he has towards our favorite local military organization, Gen. Stoneman has done a thing which dishonors him—a thing unworthy of a veteran soldier and a candidate for the high office of Chief Magistrate of California. Here, mind you, is a threat to punish and proscribe these citizen-soldiers for their individual political opinions—not for any unsoldierly action which the company, as a company, has taken, for we hear of no allegation against the men in their organic capacity; no charge that the Eagle Corps, as such, has done anything unworthy its character as a component part of the National Guard. It is an attempt to coerce the political actions of men in a matter with which Stoneman, even were he Governor, would have nothing whatever to do. We trust this dastardly threat, conveyed by Gen. Stoneman through a leader of the League of Freedom to our free-born citizen-soldiers, will receive at the polls, to-day, that severe rebuke which it so richly merits.

E. M. GIBSON—"honest Gibson," as his friends delight to call him—has nobly stood the test of the campaign and proved himself worthy to be elected Railroad Commissioner for the Third District. He is free, fearless, impartial, unpledged and untrammeled. His opponent, Foote, is proven to be the railroad candidate, and has greedily taken reckless pledges in regard to the reduction of freights and fares—pledges which John T. Doyle, a Democrat, an honest man, a former Railroad Commissioner, and the best posted man on the subject in the State, declares "no gentleman" could take. Defeat Foote and elect Gibson.

TEN counties, measureless and multifarious lies told in this campaign by Democrats about ex-Gov. Woods and his past record have all been exploded, and he stands to-day vindicated and worthy of the votes of this people for Congressman. He is a man of great experience in public affairs, of acknowledged ability, and is a commanding orator, who will make himself heard with effect in the halls of Congress in behalf of the interests of the Fourth Congressional District. Give George L. Woods a rousing majority, and leave Tully-ho of Gilroy at home.

WE learn by a dispatch from San Francisco that Dr. McDonald, who, it may be well to mention, is alleged to be the Prohibition candidate for Governor, is reported to have withdrawn from the canvass. The report, however, is denied. This goes to show how near Dr. McDonald came to being credited with sound political and prohibition sense. It was a violent presumption, it seems.

CHRISTIAN citizens! men of law and order! when you vote to-day, remember the time-honored Sunday of your fathers, and so vote that it be not abolished or dishonored, or its sacred character impaired.

TEMPERANCE MEN! do not throw your votes away on the Prohibition candidates, and so give a half vote to the Democrats. Vote for the true temperance party, which is the Republican party.

EVERY Republican should scrutinize his ticket closely, and see that it contains the names of the candidates.
