| THE REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK. One month ago the prospect for a Republican victory in the State was not bright; it was dark. To-day it is not dark; it is bright. Our latest advices from Republican State headquarters, and from the various precincts of Los Angeles county, are most encouraging. Good tidings come in from all along the line. The Republican watch-fires burn brightly. The Republican standards are advancing, and the Republican hosts are on the front line of battle, confident, organized, compact, ready for the fray. For many weeks the contest was waged without any apparent progress on the part of the Republicans. But as the issues became more clearly defined, and the real attitude of the contending parties became plain to the people, the complexion of the contest changed. The past fortnight, especially the past ten days, has witnessed a radical change in public sentiment. The tide of victory, which this week has been the subject of the Republican belief, that the tide of democracy, and later to stand still, slowly came and commenced to flow towards the Republican side; and now, on the morning of the day of battle, there is very strong reason for the prediction that the tide of democracy will prove to be the tide of victory, and by set of sun will have carried Morris M. Este and the whole Republican ticket into the haven of Victory! Let us all make one supreme effort to help forward this so glorious result!   |  |
